KEY MEN TO FIGHT TO A FINISH WITH TELEGRAPH CO.

Adopt Resolution Asking Order of Railway Telegraphers to Amalgamate With Them—Elect Officers and Adjourn Sine Die

FUTURE OF UNION AT STAKE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 26.—The telegraphers' convention adopted a resolution last night asking the Order of Railway Telegraphers to call a special meeting to vote on amalgamation with the Commercial Telegraphers' International union. This throws the matter into the hands of the railroad operators for approval.

The convention discussed for several hours today how to finance the strike and the policy to be pursued in carrying it on. The consensus of opinion was that the money should be raised as quickly as possible and that under no circumstances should the strike be called off until some sort of a settlement is made with the railroad companies.

The future of the organization was said to depend upon the stand taken on the proposition. To end the strike without an agreement with the companies would mean, it was said, that the organization would go to pieces. Only the broker and the leased wire operators, in that event, could be expected to remain loyal.

The proposition to amalgamate with the Order of Railway Telegraphers was fought by many delegates. The Chicago and New York delegates are urging this issue, but a number of those present from other cities are opposing it. The opposition scored a point in the morning session by temporarily sidetracking the amalgamation plan.

This was carried by one vote and was said to forecast a defeat for the amalgamation plan.

Officers Elected.

Milwaukee, Oct. 26.—The convention of Commercial Telegraphers union adjourned sine die after the election of W. W. Beattie, of Washington, D. C., as president; H. J. Horn, Cincinnati, first vice-president; and A. S. Ewing, St. Louis, Mo., third vice-president. Orville A. Glen retains his office as fourth vice-president. Frank T. Likes, of Chicago, and C. L. P. Smith, of Salt Lake City, were added to the executive board.

The first official action of President Beattie was to appoint two committees of three each to go to New York to endeavor to meet with the officials of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies with a view to bringing about a settlement of the strike. Another committee consisting of five members was appointed to go to St. Louis to meet officials of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers relative to the proposition for amalgamation with that organization.

At a meeting of the creditors of the Dixie Knitting Mills company held in Judge E. W. Bagby's office this afternoon, Attorney Cecil Reed was elected trustee of the estate and the bond he presented was accepted. The trustee will at once file a petition, asking that he be permitted to offer at public auction the personal property of the concern.

NO REVISION OF TARIFF

Will Be Attempted at Next Session of Congress.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The attitude of house leaders with reference to tariff revision was disclosed by Congressman Watson, whip of the house, in an interview. The program, he said, will be "to pass the necessary appropriation bills and let it go at that."

Judge Breathitt at Glasgow.

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 26.—Judge James Breathitt, of Hopkinsville, candidate for attorney general on the Republican ticket, spoke to a good crowd at the court house here in the interest of his candidacy and the Republican state ticket. He delivered a telling speech, and was frequently compelled to stop until applause subsided.

"Col." Bryan's Pay Held Up.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 26.—Col. W. J. Bryan and Capt. (now governor) George L. Sheldon, of the Third Nebraska in the late war, must furnish further proof of the dates of their service before the war department will pay them. The order affects all officers of the regiment. Privates have been paid.

Is It Progress or Plunder?

Were you asked to mention the best governed municipalities in the country, where would you turn?

Would it be to New York? Would it be to Cincinnati? Would it be to Louisville? Would it be to Memphis? Scarcely.

You would first think of Cleveland, under Mayor Tom Johnson; Toledo, not yet under the spell of "Golden Rule" Jones; Milwaukee, where Mayor Herman Becker presides.

Oddly, too, each of these cities is administered by a man of affairs; not a politician, in the sense that he makes his living by office holding. Tom Johnson is a multi-millionaire—made it in traction lines. "Golden Rule" Jones patented a sucker-rod for pumps, and got rich manufacturing them. Young Becker, inherited millions and found he had a mission to perform, not necessarily associated with the doing out of charity.

Why was it that three men of this kind proved successful as executives of cities, while politicians, without exception, have succeeded only in making municipal government in America a reproach, and a menace to the safety of the state and nation?

First let us look at the city and then the men.

A city government comes closer home to the people, than a state or national government. The chief function of a city government is the collection and expenditure of revenue in tangible improvements, and the protection of the lives and property of its citizens. People in cities are so crowded and hampered that they are interdependent for their comfort, convenience and very existence, and require an efficiency in their local government, not dreamed of in the loose character of the state organization. There is always before the executive of a city that same relation of income to expenditure, and revenue to improvement, that one finds in private affairs. The same exacting fidelity to detail, efficiency of organization, judgment and experience are demanded that are called out by big business enterprises.

Since the increase of population and traffic constantly demand extensions of permanent improvements, with each extension adding to the area to be repaired; and better police and fire protection, more salaries and heavier running expenses, and since the source and manner of revenue are limited, it requires with each succeeding year closer economy to make both ends meet in a municipality, and shrewd financing to maintain public credit. There is no margin to provide for mistakes and graft.

So, a professional politician is eliminated as a possible success by the very conditions surrounding the office, one that requires the most unlimited freedom of action within the law. The man, who seeks office, is under obligation to those who help him get it. This does not mean that the man, who is induced to accept a nomination, is under obligation to every one who votes for him. The voter is supposed to support the candidate, who best represents his interests as a citizen. But the man, who asks for a nomination for the gratification of his own desires, is bound by the ties of natural obligation to that faction, which takes him up. That obligation becomes a handicap to his efficient administration of office. In his every official act he must consider the welfare of his political friends, as much as the welfare of the public. The story of mismanagement, waste and plunder, that is part of the history of nearly every municipality, is but logical and inevitable.

Eliminating the professional place hunter, there are dozens of business and professional men and artisans, just as capable of administering the affairs of a city as Becker, Jones or Johnson.

But there are not dozens of capable men, who have the time. There's the rub.

A business man, professional man or artisan, who has by economy, perseverance and ability, laid the foundation of a business, practice or trade, cannot afford to abandon it for four years, while he devotes his labors to the city, and then at the end of his term of office return to the thankless task of starting his business all over again.

The same condition exists in Paducah. There are other men, besides James P. Smith, capable of administering city affairs; but few such are available. He is the head of an established business. He has developed it, and, it is true, he makes a financial sacrifice by entering politics, but it was made apparent to him that the sacrifice in his case is less than in the case of men, who are building up a trade or business. The situation demands a business man. He declined once to consider the nomination, because of personal interests. When he finally acquiesced it was with the stipulation that he should be absolutely free in the management of city affairs, be unrestrained by considerations of party expediency, and under obligation to no body for the office.

Shall Paducah be administered by a business man, liable like other taxpayers for the cost of the government, and interested with other property owners in the advancement of the city, like Toledo, Cleveland and Milwaukee, or shall the city hall be turned over to the party spoilsman, like Louisville and Memphis?

This Prisoner Had Set of Burglars Tools, a Revolver and Some Nitro—Was Arrested For Stealing Horse

Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Massac county officers believe they made a fine catch in I. J. Coyne, charged with stealing a horse in Johnson county. He was caught at Brookport and had in his possession a full set of burglar's tools, and two small boxes, labeled nitro, and containing a peculiar looking substance, which the authorities think is nitroglycerine. When John Veatch, deputy sheriff of Johnson county, took charge of the prisoner he refused to divulge his name, but on a revolver, recovered from his person, was inscribed the name, I. J. Coyne. He said that was his name. If the prosecution fails in Johnson county, Coyne will be tried here for carrying concealed a deadly weapon. It is also believed he robbed a Metropolis woman at Hot Springs, as he seems to answer the description.

MUST PAY TAXES

Sheriff Ogilvie and his force of deputies are kept busy this week issuing tax receipts to taxpayers, who desire to pay their state and county taxes before the 6 per cent penalty goes on November 1. This is the month under the law passed at the last session of the legislature. The law also provides that after November 15 the tax books are to be turned over to the county clerk, who will issue tax warrants against all delinquents, entailing an additional cost of $1 besides the penalty that goes on at that time.

CITY WINS POINT IN SUIT ON BOND OF MR J. L. JONES

Demurrer is Sustained to Petition Involving City in Damage Suit, Growing Out of Collapse of American Express Building

CASE GOES TO FEDERAL COURT

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 26. (Special.)—In the city of Paducah vs. J. L. Jones, the court of appeals in reversing and remanding the case, holds that it may be proven whether appellee was guilty of a violation of the Sunday closing laws other than the offense charged.

In this case an order of confession was entered on the police court docket, a fine was assessed and Mayor Yeiser revoked his license. Suit was brought on his bond against Jones and his bondsmen, Lee and Adolph Weil. The facts showed that the liquor was sold by a clerk, and Judge Reed held the proprietor not responsible under the circumstances. Exceptions were also taken to rulings on evidence. The city was represented by City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr.

City is Relieved.

Judge Reed in circuit court this morning sustained the demurrer filed to the petition of the Smith Sisters against Capt. J. M. White and the city of Paducah, in so far as the city of Paducah is concerned, while the motion of the attorneys for White to transfer the action against him to the United States court was sustained.

The suit is for $4,000 damages growing out of the collapse of the building occupied by the Smith Sisters, caused by the walls of the White building falling on the building. Smith Sisters, whose stock was destroyed, sought to hold the city of Paducah liable, because the walls of the White building had been weakened by fires, but had been allowed to stand.

The decision of Judge Reed relieves the city of any liability for the damages, and the case against White will be tried in the federal courts.

BIG CROWDS GREET FAIRBANKS TRAIN. COUNCIL MUDDLE

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 26. (Special.)—There was a big crowd to hear Fairbanks at Lexington, Paris, Midway and this city this morning and Winchester last night.

Vice President Fairbanks made clear his position in reference to quotations from certain St. Louis and New York papers to the effect that he was not a candidate, actively or receptively, for the presidency. He said that while in St. Louis he refused positively to discuss politics, and that any statement alleged to have come from him in reference to national politics or the presidency was entirely unfounded.

Bowling Green, Ky., Oct. 26. (Special.)—Democratic "wet" council nominees secured a temporary injunction to keep the fusion "dry" nominees off the ticket.

W. S. Smith today filed a lien in the county court against the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket company for $342, due him for wages before the company went into the hands of a receiver April 15. The petition recites that Smith was to receive $50 per week for his services as foreman of the plant.

Jackson is under indictment for running a gambling house.

MONSTER POTATOES

Mr. A. S. Whitlock, who lives six miles from Paducah on the Mayfield road, brought to the city today a basket containing 11 Irish potatoes that grew in one hill. The combined weight of the potatoes was 19 pounds and several showed that they were dug before they were fully matured. The potatoes are of the King variety and were grown on Mr. Whitlock's farm by Mr. Hugh Bagby. They are the second crop grown on the same ground this year and were not planted until August 1.

Another daughter, Mrs. Frank Peabody, is in Los Angeles, Cal.; and a son, Mr. Clarence McKenzie, lives in Gatesville, Tenn. Mrs. Kidd will not be able to attend the funeral. Mrs. McKenzie was a most lovable woman and had many friends here, where she formerly lived. She was a member of the Broadway Methodist church and a noble christian woman.

JOSEPH E. POTTER, PRESIDENT OF SCHOOL BOARD PLEADED WITH CONDITION OF SCHOOL

Will Retire by Grace of Democratic Faction After November Election

People Wonder What Was Cause of Insult to the Veteran.

Col. Joseph E. Potter, president of the school board, is pleased with the condition of the schools. This morning he said: "We visited all the schools this week, where 'Parents' Days' were observed, and they could not be in better condition. I am interested in the schools and the teachers and the scholars, and I was mightily pleased to see everything running so smoothly."

Col. Potter's term on the school board and as president will expire with the election November 5. He was elected by members of the school board, Democrats and Republicans, to fill the vacancy, caused by the resignation of Mr. Ashley Robertson, until the election. As soon as he took his seat he was elected by the same non-partisan vote president to succeed Dr. Anthony List. The resignation of Mr. Robertson left a vacancy on the ticket in President Potter's ward, which was filled by the Democratic campaign committee. Col. Potter was not appointed.

"Would your interest in the school have led you to accept re-election to the board, if the Democratic committee had seen fit to endorse the action of the school board in electing you to a seat and the presidency?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied. "It's a heap of trouble, but I have got interested in the schools, and I like the work."

"Were you ever asked by the committee to accept the nomination, or consulted in any way about the place?"

"No. None of them ever spoke to me. Some of my friends thought I was treated pretty badly. I understand."

BANK CLEARINGS INCREASE AGAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Bank clearings for week . . . $691,955.
For same week last year . . . 658,852.
Increase . . . 33,103.

Notwithstanding the panicky feeling throughout the entire country during the week the Paducah bank clearings again show substantial increase over last year.

Bankers and business men say that the storm that has been brewing in the money centers of the world has had but little if any effect on local conditions, and no fears are entertained that it will the coming week.

Retail merchants have enjoyed unusually good business, while there seems to have been no decrease in the amount of goods shipped out by the wholesale merchants. The sale of lots in Gregory Heights addition was satisfactory to the promoters of the enterprise and shows the confidence of the public in Paducah real estate.

NOT GOOD POLICY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The treasury department declined to grant a representative on Burleson's request to place ten millions with southern banks to prevent sacrifices of cotton. Burleson charges the department with showing favoritism to Wall street, after being told the department's funds are reduced to a mere working balance, and that, any how, his proposition to accept cotton warehouse receipts as security is not in accordance with the department's policy.

Would Use Airships in War.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—Brig. Gen. James Allen, chief officer of the signal corps of the United States army, who witnessed all of the balloon ascensions made here this week, was much impressed by the performance of some of the airships yesterday and declared he would recommend in his next report to the secretary of war that several balloons of the dirigible type be bought or constructed for government experimental work. "No large fighting force of the future will be complete without its complement of airships," he said.

stand some of the committee wanted me, and some others said they wouldn't stand for me at all. I never asked them for anything, and I never inquired what took place."

"What are your politics, Colonel Potter?"

"I am a Democrat," replied the Confederate veteran. "If you're going to put anything in the paper, just print the facts. Don't get me into any controversy."

Colonel Joseph E. Potter was the second highest candidate for mayor in the Democratic primary. He had no organization behind him, and his following was personal. His well known honesty and worth as a citizen and a man, gives him, perhaps, the strongest personal following of any man in Paducah.

Colonel Potter made his race on enforcement of the law and was beaten by the faction now in control of the party organization. Whether his insulting treatment by the campaign committee was the result of animosity engendered in the primary, or whether it was caused by Republicans uniting with Democrats in electing him president of the school board, is not known.

He has won success in his adopted home, where he is a leading lawyer, large land owner and president of the Exchange bank. He was a member of the Missouri senate for several terms. Mr. Anderson finds marked improvement in Paducah between his visits here. He is a nephew of the late William F. Norton, of Louisville, formerly a Paducah banker, and friends of Mr. Norton here noticed a striking resemblance.

Herolsom.

There is a good deal of heroism in the world of the sort that gets into the public eye and receives medals as a reward, as the giving out of sixty-three such tokens of gold, silver or bronze by the Carnegie hero fund commission attests. There is more of the splendid stuff indeed than even the firmest believers in human nature think possible without all the gratifying figures at hand to prove its existence. And when one reflects that the heroism which may be known of all men is only about one-thousandth part as great as the sort that never will and never may be known it makes one feel that the world and the times are good.—Boston Transcript.

Raymond's Opinion of Gov. Hughes

New York, Oct. 26.—As I sat in the executive chamber and witnessed an ordinary looking man finishing his lamb chop and pouring out his second cup of tea it was difficult to understand that he was Gov. Hughes the chief executive of the first state in the Union, says Raymond in the Chicago Tribune.

The governor of New York has a peculiar personality. He is cold. He would seldom make friends by himself. When he talks he occasionally breaks into a smile that is most engaging, but those half laughs are rare. He is a serious man, and he takes things in a serious way. He likes to climb mountains, and he has the thrill of the woods in all he does.

In his talk Gov. Hughes is intensely earnest and full of the dignity of his work. Yet he is less of a chief executive than most men in the same place. He is always the successful lawyer who has been selected for unusual work in a conspicuous place.

Taft and Hughes Not Alike.

There is scarcely any doubt of the fact that Gov. Hughes, of New York, and Secretary Taft, of Ohio, are the most natural probabilities for the presidency next year, assuming that Mr. Roosevelt will not be a candidate. Between the two there are absolutely no points of similarity. Taft is big and fat and essentially a good mixer. Hughes is small and spare and one who must be understood at first hand or not at all. As a governor he has been a remarkable success. He has accomplished great things and has done more in the way of actual executive work than La Follette, Cummins, Johnson or any of the other spectacular governors.

The public utilities bill, which Gov. Hughes pushed through the legislature by the force of his individual capacity, is more nearly in tune with the intentions of President Roosevelt than that reformer was able to accomplish with congress. The public utilities bill alone should be enough to entitle Gov. Hughes to first rank in the list of men who do things. It is his own creation, for it was drafted in his own speeches. In this one act there is concentrated a determination to control the corporations to a degree not yet expressed in law.

The effect of the law was immediately apparent. The commission which it created began to develop corporate iniquities almost at once. It exposed the nefarious actions of the New York traction combination and it dislodged Belmont and his aggregation as a political force.

Conservative, Yet Forceful.

Yet with all this, Gov. Hughes is distinctly a conservative quantity. He operates along well regulated lines. He seems to be a good lawyer who has been entrusted with the work of a governor of a great state, and who has accepted his duties simply and solely as they have come to him.

It may be doubted whether Gov. Hughes would make a good president. He is too individual, too much of a lawyer, and possibly too little of an executive. He certainly is less of a governor than La Follette or Deneen or Cummins, and yet he is undoubtedly greater than any of these. Gov. Hughes' capacity lies in the fact that he relies entirely upon the support of the people. He first makes up his mind as to a certain policy and then take the public into his confidence. He has refused at ways to make use of the patronage of his office to advance his own theories, and has never played politics to advance his individual ends.

Utilities Bill Master Work. The public utilities bill, which is now closely associated with his career as governor, is undoubtedly the greatest advance yet made in the direction of the control of corporations by the state. It assumes to create a commission which will absolutely regulate every public corporation and which will establish the right of the state to supervise the acts of every corporation. Whether this can be done legally remains to be seen and yet it is certainly true that Gov. Hughes is more of a lawyer than a governor. His public utilities bill passed the scrutiny of the best lawyers in the New York legislature and its constitutionality has not yet been questioned.

ANOTHER UNION VENTURE.

Organized Compositors Considering an Old-Age Pension Scheme.

Along the line of meritorious conceptions and achievements of the International Typographical Union none occupies a higher plane than the proposition to pension superannuated members of the craft, which was adopted by the recent convention of the union, and submitted for membership vote. Almshouses, infirmaries and kindred institutions may be filled with humanity whose circumstances during life, either through prodigality or misfortune, have prevented the saving of pennies for the proverbial "rainy day," but the International Typographical Union will have none of these, for in addition to its Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs it is seriously considering the possibilities of an international pension scheme that will enable it to place in independent circumstances those of its membership who have run life's race with no financial advantage to themselves, and who are, for family or other reasons, unable to take advantage of the adequate provisions of its haven of rest.

Local Typographical Unions of the larger size have grappled with the pension proposition with more or less success, but the International Typographical Union giving the matter consideration and standing insures a widespread international character to the movement that can have no other effect than the dovetailing and cementing of that fraternal spirit that springs spontaneously from head to heart among printers, and which has had feasible demonstration of utility in the Colorado Springs retreat—"its bounty unpurchasable, its charity without price."

The International Typographical Union never does anything by halves. An organization of 50,000 members scattered throughout the United States and Canada, that can begin with a working capital of $10,000 and intelligently and successfully build and conduct an institution representing every penny's worth of $500,000 can be relied upon to originate and inaugurate a plan for pensioning its aged and infirm membership that will be worthy of emulation for organizations of like character.

Many cities have pension funds in operation for the benefit of policemen, firemen, school teachers and other public servants; the United States government annually expends millions of dollars in pensions to its aged and disabled warriors. An occasional business house has been noted, that, after a service of long duration, retires preferred employees on a yearly allowance, but the practical working out of a scheme for pensioning in a substantial manner, the decrepit membership of a voluntary organization, composed of a mixture of nationalities, politics and creeds, is necessarily an untried experiment. The International Typographical Union can, it is believed, be safely relied upon to solve the question in a comprehensive and practical manner.

This is one reason for the continued existence of the rattlesnake in the midst of enemies who would exterminate it, for, contrary to the general belief, the rattler rarely gives its characteristic note of warning until actually attacked. In fact, the sharp, vibrant ring of its terminal appendage is probably designated more to assist this very sluggish serpent to obtain its food than to sound defiance or warning. In the first place, serpents possess but the most rudimentary traces of auditory apparatus and are practically deaf, the deficiency in the sense of hearing being compensated for an extreme sensitiveness of feeling which makes them aware of the approach of moving objects by the vibration of the ground. Hunters, treading cautiously upon a soft carpet of moss or leaves to avoid alarming game, will often step close to or over a rattler without disturbing it or receiving warning, and while many snakes are seen and killed by them, it is probable that a far greater number are passed by unnoticed. All snakes are timid and would rather run than fight, and the rattler is not inviting certain destruction by advertising its whereabouts in the brush—Outing Magazine.

Pride has kept many a man from bending over far enough to pick up the success that lay at his feet.

For Female Ills

Strange Symptoms

Those symptoms, that you do not understand, are very likely due, if you are a woman, to womanly disease. Frequently female disorder is so insidious, that no local pain is experienced, but just a feeling of misery, all-over, and a general nervous, irritable, depression, that has driven many a sufferer to the brink of desperation.

In such cases, Wine of Cardui can be depended on to bring relief and renewed interest in life. Being a strengthening, building, female tonic, it renews the vital forces, invigorates the womanly organs and puts strength where women most need it.

"I do not know," writes Mrs. Martha Wilson, "that I can command words, to tell you how grateful I am to Cardui, for giving me back my health again."

"I was troubled with prolapse for 3 or 4 years; unable, a great deal of the time, to do my work."

"After taking one bottle of Cardui, I was able to do my work." Sold everywhere.

OCTOBER WOOINGS.

The blackberry bush is a sad coquette; Behold how she blushes—the tense— Blushes wine-red at the sun's kiss, yet Trembles with vague, half-real regret At the passing of the breeze.

The warm south wind is the milk-weed's lover; In her turret tall and slim, She waits for his whisper—happy rover— She is willing to fly the whole world over If only she goes with him.

Alone through the golden noon we rove. Swift birds in the branches dart. There's joy untold in the maple grove. All the winsome wild things are in love— Is any one else, Dear Heart?

Details of Holland-Province Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Nell Holland and Mr. Paul W. Province will take place on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ell G. Boone, 308 South Sixth street. The ceremony will be witnessed only by the family and a limited number of special friends of the bridal couple. The Rev. S. B. Moore, D. D. of the First Christian church, will perform the ceremony. The wedding music will be played by an orchestra. The color-motif of the decorations will be white and green.

She will enter with Mr. Province and they will be preceded by the ribbon bearers, little Misses Adine Corbett and Mary Terry Burnett. They will wear dainty lingerie frocks of white unrelieved by any color. There will be no other attendants.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Boone will entertain with an elaborate wedding reception from 9 to 11 o'clock, to which many invitations have been issued.

Mr. and Mrs. Province will leave at midnight for Washington and points east. The bride's going-away gown is a stylish green tailored cloth. They will be at home at 436 South Sixth street on their return.

To Locate in Richmond.

Mr. Cook Husbands left today for Richmond, Va., to make his home. He has accepted a permanent position with the O. L. Gregory Vinegar company there. Mrs. Husbands will join him in ten days. The departure from Paducah of this universally popular couple is deeply regretted. Their circle of friends in their native city is unusually large. By virtue of their own personality as well as by right of family, they have been leaders in all the social pleasures here. It will be difficult for Paducah society to adjust itself to life without them.

Beautiful Luncheon to Mrs. Riker.

Mrs. Edmund Morrow Post and Mrs. Mildred Fowler Davis gave a charming buffet luncheon today at 1 o'clock at the home of their mother, Mrs. Joseph H. Fowler, 619 Kentucky avenue. Mrs. Letcher Riker, of Harrodsburg, president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's clubs, was the guest of honor.

Invited to meet Mrs. Riker were: The executive board of the Woman's club, the officers of the Delphic club, Magazine club, Matinee Musical club, Kalosopie club, Alumni association, Humane society, the Regent of the Paducah chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and president of the Paducah chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The state federation colors of blue and gold were attractively emphasized in the decoration of the table. The center-piece was a handsome canelabrum, yellow shaded. At the four corners of the table were vases of yellow chrysanthemums. There were decorated with knots of army blue ribbon. The luncheon was an elaborate course affair.

Both Mrs. Post and Mrs. Davis are prominent club women. Mrs. Post is third vice-president of the state federation and Mrs. Davis is president of the Delphic club, a member of the federation. The luncheon was an informal but pretty compliment to the state president.

Charming Afternoon Reception to Honor Visitors.

The house is a charming reflection of the beauty of the Autumn season. In the library the dominant note is red and red dahlias are used throughout in the room's pretty decoration.

The dining room is a golden glow of yellow chrysanthemums effectively arranged.

Coffee is served in the cozy den, which with its ferns, trailing vines and autumn leaves has a charming effect of the woods.

Receiving with Mrs. Sanders are: Mrs. Letcher Riker, of Harrodsburg; Miss Helen Ripley, of Lawrenceburg; Mrs. James A. Rudy, Miss Hallie Hisey, Mrs. James Bethshares, Mrs. Hughes McKnight, Misses Anna Campbell Flounroy, Mrs. Edmund M. Post, Mrs. John W. Scott. Mrs. Riker at Woman's Club.

Mrs. Letcher Simral Riker, of Harrodsburg, president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's clubs, addressed the various clubs of the city on Friday afternoon at the Woman's club building. She was heard by a most representative audience of Paducah women, members of the five federated clubs, Delphic, Magazine, Matinee Musical, Kalosopie and Woman's club; the Alumni Association and a number of prominent club women from the neighboring towns.

Mrs. Riker is a woman of striking personality, tall, commanding and gracious, with woman's divinest gift—a most charming voice. Her address was more in the nature of an informal talk with her fellow-workers on the different aspects of federative work. While acknowledging the importance of each department she said they were so akin in parts that they often touched. She spoke especially of the great work of the Civics section and the untold possibilities opening before it. Most especially did she stress the educational work, though and the great campaign on which Kentucky's federated clubs have on-tered this year for "the betterment of schools." This is the slogan for Mrs. Riker, and was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Elbridge Palmer, Kentucky took low rank in education status, below most of the states. She stood higher than most in the rank of her educated people, her people of culture, whose English was said to be the purest spoken anywhere. This only made the noblesse oblige greater; the responsibility of the cultured club women to raise the status of education higher.

Mrs. Riker made gracious reference to Paducah, her clubs, the beautiful club house, and the charming impression her women had made at Shelbyville last June. She said the Paducah women were a perfect revelation to the women of the other sections, so seldom had they met any from this end of the state. This was what federation meant and was doing, bringing all within touch of each other, the greater the knowledge the greater the bond. She gave a touching illustration of a young girl visiting in the mountain section of the state, to whom the old mountaineer said "Yes, we need you up here, but you need us, too. We all need each other."

Among the out-of-town club women present to hear and meet Mrs. Riker were: Mrs. R. A. Hester, Mrs. John Blalock, Mrs. J. R. Lemon, representing the Mayfield Woman's club; Mesdames R. L. Dacus, G. L. Major W. L. Reynolds, J. C. Brann, T. H. Weeks, of the Fulton Fortnightly club; and Mrs. Jacob Corbett, of the Wickliffe Woman's club.

A reception in honor of Mrs. Riker was held in the library of the club, at the close of the address. The room, charming with the quaint green colonial furniture, was effectively decorated in white chrysanthemums and ferns. Mrs. James A.

Rudy, president of the club, presented the handsome silver fork, was won by Mrs. J. C. Flounroy. The guest prize, a pretty gold hat pin, went to Mrs. Stegall. The house was effectively decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, and the pretty two-course luncheon carried out the yellow color-scheme. Mrs. Dysart's guests were: Mrs. Walter Stegall, of Jackson, Tenn.; Mrs. James E. English, Mrs. Fred Rudy, Mrs. James Campbell Flounroy, Mrs. George B. Hart, Mrs. Luke Russell, Mrs. Clarence Sherrill, Mrs. Hubbard Wells, Mrs. George Exall, Mrs. Carrie Ellis, Mrs. Thomas Leech, Mrs. W. A. Gardner.

Mrs. Riker Guest of Honor.

Mrs. Letcher Simral Riker, of Harrodsburg, president of the Kentucky Federation Woman's clubs, is the guest this week of Mrs. James A. Rudy, the president of the Paducah Woman's club. On Thursday night from 8:30 to 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rudy entertained with a reception, introducing Mrs. Riker. It was most beautiful in all of its details. The Paducah Woman's club colors of green, gold and white, were carried out most effectively in the decoration of the rooms, with their prodigious profusion of ferns, yellow and white chrysanthemums, and in the attractive course-luncheon. Mrs. Rudy's receiving party in the various rooms were: Mr. and Mrs. Muscoe Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rieke, Mr. and Mrs. Robert-Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rudy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kiger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bringshurst, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leech, Mr. and Mrs. Lillard Sanders, Mrs. Elbridge Palmer, Mrs. Edmund Post, Mrs. Mildred Davis, Mrs. Armour McCuen, Mrs. Fred Rudy, Mrs. Julia McCuen, Mrs. Charles James, Mrs. Hughes McKnight, Misses Anna Webb, Claribel Rieke, Retta Hatfield, Cora Lee Wortham, of Hugo, I. The many beautiful women present and elegant costumes added to the brilliancy of the occasion.

D. A. R. Fountain Day.

Monday, November 11, has been set aside by Paducah chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, as "D. A. R. Memorial Fountain Day," and the members will seek to raise the balance of the fountain fund by an active canvass on that day among the business men. Only one dollar will be asked for and it is hoped that the entire amount will be raised without trouble. The sum is small and will tax no one, and to complete the amount needed this way will mean a release from the entail of entertainments and other measures. The fountain will be an ornament to the city and one dollar is a light sum to gratify civic pride.

Delphic Club.

An interesting meeting of the Delphic club was held on Tuesday morning at the Carnegie library. The leading cities of the old Memphian kingdom of Egypt was agreeably featured by Mrs. Mildred Davis and Mrs. Robert B. Phillips. Mrs. Edmund M. Post gave a graphic account of the Sphinx of Gizeh.

Impossible Work.

He went down and braved. He remained on the bottom some minutes, then he signaled impatiently to be drawn up. They drew him up and he motioned for them to remove his helmet. As they started to do this the foreman said: "What is the matter, Mike?" "Take the darn lid off me," he replied. "I'm done wid div-in'." "Why?" asked the foreman. "I's never worruk," was the excited answer "at any job where I can't split on me hands."—Philadelphia Dispatch.

SOME DIRTY TACTICS.

With brazen effrontery, and without the semblance of apology, the News-Democrat editorially admitted last night that it had lied the night before about James P. Smith, and attempted to convert a half-truth into semblance of fact, to bolster up its falsehood then 24 hours tenant of the memory of its readers. Thursday night it printed many extras, which it scattered liberally over the city, and the edition contained the editorial statement, unqualified, in any way, that "Mr. Smith is the owner of five saloons."

Last night the News-Democrat followed with this falsehood:

"As has been suggested and will probably be stated in the Republican organ, this afternoon, Mr. Smith may not, practically speaking, own the five saloons credited to him, but the proprietor of each is a lessee of his, and as the business of each prospers, in the same measure it is natural to suppose, will Mr. Smith's interests thrive. One naturally depends upon the other."

The News-Democrat's anticipation was faulty. The Sun did not state anything except that the News-Democrat falsified, and it was happily corroborated by the contemporaneous admission of the publication itself.

We have only this further comment to add: the explanation offered by the News-Democrat is just as big and deliberate a falsehood as its original charge. Mr. Smith, as administrator of an estate, collects rent from saloons, which were tenants of the estate when it came into Mr. Smith's hands.

Now, just one word further. This kind of campaign has gone far enough. If it is not stopped, the light may be turned on Tom Harrison and his choicest intimates and political allies, and, as President Roosevelt puts it, the man, who turns on the light will not be responsible for what the light reveals.

Let us be decent in this campaign. Remember, we all have to live together in Paducah after the election is over.

WILL THEY STEAL IT?

The following paragraph from the letter of a former Kentuckian to The Sun, reflects the opinion of lots of Kentuckians on the ground—that the gang at Frankfort will steal the election this fall in any event. To quote the writer:

"In the state race, I should like to see Wilson win, but I'm too pessimistic, I suppose, to believe that he will. The Republicans have used everything from verbal nitro-glycerine to brotherly love in their state campaigns, but without success, except in one or two instances when the Democrats did not expect their resentment to result in such a disaster to themselves as it did. But even if you win they'll steal it. They'll still have enough in the legislature to do that. If they want to flitch the election there's nothing easier than doing it under the present election law."

THE BALLOONING TRIUMPH.

A finish so close as to be dramatic intensifies the interest of the world in the international balloon races held at St. Louis and managed so ably that no incident or hitch occurred in the preparations, the ascensions, or the remarkable flights through the air, says the Globe-Democrat. The result under the rules, was so evenly balanced that the official decision had to be awaited. It was decidedly not a race in which one was first and the rest nowhere. Each of the balloons made a good voyage and several halted only at the edge of the Atlantic. If the American balloon that descended in Canada had kept on it would have had the advantage of the greatest reach of land to the east, and might not only have won the race but broken all records as to distance traveled by any balloon. The world's long-distance record is the only one that stands. All the rest were disposed of by the international race of this week which, as a whole, was incomparably ahead of any other. America's long-distance mark, which had stood for forty-eight years, was surpassed by several this week, and both the average performances of the balloons and the endurance were far greater in 1907 than in 1906.

Several of the balloonists in this year's competition aimed to reach New York City, and came near doing it, a fact impressing the idea that the gas balloon of the best type is more dirigible than is supposed. It is, when capably run, a delicately balanced machine that responds at a touch to varying currents and weights. An instant's release of gas causes it to descend, and a handful of sand thrown out sends it upward. If the aeronaut knows the air currents as they overlay and overlap each other, and as they shift from time to time, he can regulate the course to a considerable extent. Both the German and French balloonists who reached the most easterly points in the race seem to have prepared their machines carefully for endurance, and to have made the most of the resources of maneuvering at different heights, especially toward the end. But for the danger of going out to sea they would have arrived at New York City in an hour or two more. If the atmospheric currents were more fully known it would be quite possible to conduct a St. Louis to New York aerial line with a reasonable assurance that it would seldom fail to make its destination. A ship is not the sport of the winds, nor is a balloon, if constructed and officered like those in the now historic St. Louis race.

The utility of such races is fully confirmed. Balloons have established their merit in military operations, and are moving into their rightful place for commercial purposes and recreational pleasure. Their safety under proper conditions has just been notably demonstrated. In speed they practically equal an express train. They have emerged from the stage of a toy for the adventurous and a mere curiosity. A future of usefulness is before them. The motor airship experiments at St. Louis have been interesting and prove progress in that department also. This city is glad to have performed its important part in a manner that gives the most complete satisfaction. It now stands credited with the greatest international balloon race as well as the greatest international exposition. There are powerful reasons why St. Louis should be considered the best ballooning center in the world. It has the geographical advantages and offers the needed facilities in the best form.

DIGNITY MARKED PAYNTER SPEECH

United States Senator Spoke at Court House Last Night

While Partisan and Prejudice, Hatred and Abuse Were Notably Absent From His Statement.

DID NOT DENY GRAFT CHARGE.

If the audience of 200 people which went out to the court house last night to hear United States Senator Thomas H. Paynter were disappointed in not hearing an orator they were pleased with the dignity which characterized the speech throughout.

Senator Paynter was introduced by T. B. Harrison, Democratic nominee for mayor, who used about fifteen minutes' time in his introductory remarks. Mr. Harrison was born and reared in Lewis county, the home of Mr. Paynter, and it was naturally expected that the senator would make a plea for his support. However, the speaker's reference to local affairs was short, and he soon drifted off into a discussion of state issues, and finally got onto the Philippine question. Before he finished he entered into an exposition of the cause and results of the Boer war. The speaker did not stoop to a mention of the race question.

In his reference to state affairs Senator Paynter gave the Democratic administration credit for the establishment of the home for the Confederate soldier, for the appropriation for the maintenance of the Kentucky Children's Home society. He charged the Republican party with hypocrisy, in charging that there had been graft in the administration of the state's affairs, for the reason that there had been graft in the states that are under Republican management. In this connection he did not once deny that there has been graft in the management of Kentucky affairs, neither did he give Mr. Willson credit for saying that what the Democratic party was to Pennsylvania and other Republican states, the Republican party was to Kentucky.

The speaker failed to arouse any great amount of enthusiasm except when his reference to local affairs was made, a number of the faithful who were stationed in the small audience led the applause.

CULLEYS DEFEAT MURRAY IN SLOW GAME.

The Culleys defeated a special team from Murray yesterday afternoon with ease, the score being 32 to 0. The visitors were unable to do anything with the locals, who showed superior knowledge of the game from start to finish. Every play of the locals was accompanied by dash and vim, and completely took the visitors by surprise. Twenty-two points were made by the locals in the first half.

REWARD A HOAX.

There is one angry negro in Paducah. Having bought up some 25 registration certificates from that many negroes he went to the Republican paper, as the story goes, and asked that they be cashed. Though he recalled to the management the fact that the paper had advertised to pay that much for the name of each certificate and every man who had sold his certificate and the same money for the name of the buyer, he got only a cold smile for his work. Not a single cent could he get for the whole 25 certificates and he is out his purchase money. He now understands that he is not amenable to any law and that no law will touch the buyer of such certificates and that the $25 offer was only a "stiff," "a game of bluff," a mere "bugaboo." The darkeys who sold their certificates may lose their votes, just as the speculator lost his investment less the 25 cents apiece paid him by a sympathetic Democrat for the papers.—News-Democrat.

SOLDIERS HONOR HELEN GOULD.

Give Her Reception of a General Officer at Fort Leavenworth.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 26.—Miss Helen Gould was accorded the honors of a general officer of the American army post in the review of troops today. She appreciated the compliment, the first of its kind ever paid here to a woman. As the soldiers marched by the reviewing point, the command was given "eyes right." They turned their heads and looked into the smiling face of Miss Gould. She showed plainly that she felt the high compliment conveyed.

Canarder Takes Five and One-Half Hours From Eastern Record.

Queensfown, Oct. 26.—The Cunard line steamer Lusitania arrived here at 9:30 o'clock this evening. She has broken the best previous eastern record. The best previous record from New York to Queensfown was 5 days 4 hours and 19 minutes. This the Lusitania made herself on her last run from New York. The Lusitania cleared Sandy Hook lightship at 5:44 p. m. Saturday last. Her time of passage has been 4 days 22 hours and 46 minutes.

During the recent struggle in Morocco the Moors one day found in their camp at Casablanca an unexploded shell, and wishing to find out how it "worked" they summoned their most proficient armorer, who, although he knows everything about hand guns, is most ignorant in regard to projectiles. This man thought that the best means of opening the shell was to use a hammer. At the second blow the shell exploded, killing and wounding many of the Moors who were crowded around him.

INVESTIGATE OSTEOPATHY.

It Is a New Diagnosis, a New Cure, Aply Called "The Sane Treatment of Disease."

Osteopathy is a method of bloodless surgical manipulations to remove any obstructions interfering with the proper transference of nerve force, or the natural flow of the blood, or the other fluids, to the organ, or part involved.

It liberates the inherent vital forces of the body—the forces which, when allowed their full and unobstructed way, have the power to gain and maintain a state of physiological equilibrium or health. In other words, allow nature to effect her own cures by a natural adjustment of any disorder in the system.

The power to heal is innate and inherent, and cannot be introduced from without, and Osteopathy cures by assisting and bringing into action that power. The taking of drugs does not add anything useful to the body—on the contrary, the effects are largely manifestations of the efforts on the part of Nature to eject and rid itself of the drugs, while the loss of energy following is nothing but the further robbing of an already lowered vitality.

Osteopathy is especially effective in cases of liver, stomach and bowel disorders, to which Paducah people are sufferers, and I should like to tell you briefly how, and why, I can cure them so easily. If you will call, Dr. G. B. Froese, 516 Broadway, Phone 1407.

UNEARTH PLOT AGAINST CZAR.

Two Discovered Undermining Tsarsko-Selo Railway.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—A supposed plot against the life of the czar has been frustrated by the accidental discovery of preparations to undermine the railway near Tsarsko-Selo.

The entrance to a tunnel was disclosed into which hutsmen descended and found two men engaged in driving a shaft toward the railway. They were arrested and handed over to the gendarmes at Tsarsko-Selo. The prisoners had the plan of a mine and telegrams asking how the work was progressing.

USE COUPON BOND for Letters that Count

One year or fifty years from now, your letters in other people's files will look as well as the day they were received if they are written on

COUPON BOND

COUPON BOND betters by age, because it is made slowly. You cannot hasten the process of paper making and get as good a paper as by the old slow method. You have to build a sheet of paper. That is why a blind man could tell a sheet of Coupon Bond in a room of other papers. The "feel" would tell him the character of the paper. Its strength and surface would tell the story of slow, careful manufacture.

600 UTE INDIANS ON WAR PATH

Troops Ordered to Cheyenne Reservation to Suppress Uprising.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The tribe of Ute Indians, including 600 persons, which more than a year ago wandered away from their reservation in Utah and created trouble in Colorado and Wyoming by threatening to take the warpath and raid ranches, is reported to have again broken out on the Cheyenne river reservation in South Dakota, where the tribe was given temporary quarters. At the request of the secretary of the interior the war department today ordered troops from Fort Meade, S. D., to the scene of the trouble.

Colonel Downs, a special agent, is at the Cheyenne river reservation and a telegram was received from him saying that the Utes had become unruly and troops are needed. Fort Meade is about 100 miles from the reservation, and it will be necessary for the cavalry to make a cross-country "hike," as there is no railroad between the two points.

GIRL STEALS; MAY GO FREE.

Confesses Theft From Government, But Sentence is Suspended.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 26.—The federal grand jury today returned an indictment against Miss Ottilie Louisa Reed, former money order clerk of the Pontiac postoffice, charging her with the embezzlement of $1,000. Miss Reed pleaded guilty to the indictment, and sentence was suspended until the April term of court. Miss Reed was arrested last June and bound over, though the facts of her arrest had been kept from the public. When the young woman faced the court and stood up awaiting sentence Judge Humphrey was nonplused. In the afternoon she returned, but again the judge could not muster courage to sentence her. As the money has been paid back, the action of the court is taken to mean no sentence will be imposed.

HELD UP BY THREE MEN.

Freight Crew Forced to Give Up Money and Watches.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—Three armed men last night held up a freight train within five miles of this city, wounded one of the train crew, robbed them of $250 and two watches, and made their escape.

The train was a suburban freight bound for New Alhambra. It is believed the robbers boarded it before it started from the yards. The engineers, firemen and head brakeman were in the cab when their assailants climbed over the box cars and covered them with revolvers and ordered them to throw up their hands.

Waves Big Stiletto.

New York, Oct. 26.—There was a run on Public School 17 in Junction avenue, Corona, L. I., yesterday by an excited foreigner who came near creating a stampede among the several hundred children and teachers in the place by brandishing a stiletto and demanding money. Miss Josephine Lawlor, the principal, tried in vain to convince him that the institution was not a bank, but a public school. To accentuate his earnestness he drove the knife into the principal's desk several times. Meanwhile some called a policeman who arrested the intruder.

Flames Break Up Reception.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Three hundred people were enjoying themselves in the assembly hall on the seventeenth floor of the Masonic Temple last night when fire started on the fourth floor, spread to the seventh and filled the upper part of the building with smoke. ABOUT PADUCAH

MR. G. W. LEE IS HERE GETTING INFORMATION.

Represents Library Department of Big Boston Corporation, of Stone & Webster.

Mr. G. W. Lee, librarian for Stone & Webster, is in Paducah securing data about conditions here. "In the foreword of his book, 'The Library and the Business Man,' Mr. Lee says for the company:

"In giving publicity to our library and its working methods, we aim to show what library work can mean to business houses. It is probably true that libraries as a whole are better equipped with statistical and technical literature than is justified by the demand; and we hope that a suggestion of how useful our own library is to us and how widely we appeal to resources without, may tend to promote a more general practice of looking to libraries as business aids. The recognition of their commercial possibilities would, we think, meet with a hearty response from the libraries themselves, and so we, among others, would thus benefit from the availability of larger resources for obtaining answers to questions that are beyond the scope of the necessarily limited equipment of a private business library."

In Boston the company keeps a complete library of statistics about the cities in which its enterprises operate.

NEXT YEAR AT FRANKFORT.

Presbyterian Synod at Owensboro Has Adjourned.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 26.—The annual synod of the Kentucky Presbyterian church came to an end last night.

Probable litigation over church property as a result of the amalgamation with the Cumberland Presbyterian church was discussed at length. Members of some of the Cumberland Presbyterian congregations have declined to accept the action of the general assembly and are preparing to file suits to secure possession of the church property. Judge W. E. Settle, of the court of appeals, who has taken a prominent part in the synod's work, and who was a member of the consolidation committee of the Cumberland church, announced that he would not sit in any cases arising out of the consolidation.

The report of the committee on temperance, which was adopted unanimously, pledged the church to work for the extension of the county unit law to all counties in the state, endorsed the Anti-Saloon League and recommended total abstinence to members of the synod.

Frankfort was chosen as the next place of meeting and the third Thursday in October was set as the date.

RICH, GIVE EMPLOYEES BUSINESS.

Two Brokers Turn Over Concern When They Have Million Each.

Cincinnati, Oct. 26.—John M. Borman, president, and William C. Dudley, secretary and treasurer of the Odell Stock company, a brokerage firm, following the wishes of the late William J. Odell, founder of the concern, today retired and turned over the business to their employees, without recompense from them of any kind. Gorman and Dudley have made $1,000,000 each in the last year, and the wish of the founder was that they retire as soon as they had that amount, and let the employees have a chance. It is claimed $500,000 was turned over to the new men, with the business. The name of the new firm is the Odell Brokerage company, and it was incorporated today with $250,000 capital. Dudley and Gorman worked their way up from the position of messenger boys, and both are telegraph operators, Dudley being president of the local union and a leader in the present strike.

Walker gave an admirable paper on the common problem confronting teachers and mothers. The Rev. D. C. Wright made a fine talk on "Books," and Prof. J. A. Carnegie spoke of his plans for the betterment of the schools. Fruit, punch and wafers were served and an informal reception was held.

LUSITANIA LOWERS ALL EAST-BOUND SHIP RECORDS.

Queenstown, Oct. 26.—The Cunard line steamer Lusitania arrived here at 9:30 this evening. It has broken the best previous eastern record.

The Lusitania cleared Sandy Hook Lightship at 5:44 p. m. Saturday last. The time of passage has been 4 days 22 hours and 46 minutes. The best previous record from New York to Queenstown was 5 days 4 hours and 19 minutes. This the Lusitania made on its last run from New York.

The Lusitania experienced rough weather and was obliged to slow down its engines. Its average speed for the entire distance was 23.61 knots. An official statement issued by the Cunard company points out that, traveling against the sun, these figures mean exceptionally fine steaming. On a westward trip this would mean a daily average of nearly 62 1/2 knots.

Kidston, of the Pacific mail liner City of Sydney, which arrived here today, reports that on the night of October 2, while lying in the harbor of Acapulco, the steamer was twice searched by Salvadorean troops who insisted that John Massante, a rebel trader, was on board. Forty-one Shots in Duel.
An affair of honor was settled here the other day in a manner that eclipses all the traditions of French duelling. Two local aristocrats decided to settle a dispute with swords in the woods near Portici, but when they got there a reconciliation was effected and the party adjourned for refreshments.

While they were so engaged an angry dispute arose between San Malato, one of the principals, and Basoline, one of the other party's seconds, and a duel with pistols was immediately arranged.

Both men are famous fencers, but they proved to be mighty poor shots. They stood at a distance of sixty-five feet and fired forty-one shots without touching each other. The forty-second shot fired by San Malato grazed his opponent's cheek. Honor was satisfied, they embraced each other and the report continues that they were warmly congratulated on their admirable coolness during a veritable hail of bullets.

The morning's work occupied three and a half hours.—Naples Cable to New York Sun.

OLD SORES FED AND KEPT OPEN BY IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD.

If Old Sores were due to outside influences, or if the cause was confined strictly to the diseased flesh around the ulcer, then external treatment and simple cleanliness would cure them. But the trouble is in the blood, which has become unhealthy and diseased, and keeps the sore open by continually discharging into it the impurities and poisons with which the circulation is filled. This poisonous condition of the blood may be the remains of some constitutional trouble; the effect of a long spell of sickness, or because the natural refuse of the body, which should pass off through the proper avenues, has been left in the system and absorbed into the blood. Again, the cause may be hereditary; but it does not matter how the poison becomes entrenched in the blood, the fact that the sore will not heal is evidence of a deep underlying cause. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., may cause the place to scab over temporarily, but the blood is not made any purer by such treatment, and soon the old inflammation and discharge will return and the sore be as bad or worse than before. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, cleanses and purifies the blood, and makes a permanent cure. S. S. S. enriches and freshens the circulation so that instead of discharging unhealthy matter into the place, it carries rich, tissue-building, flesh-healing blood to the diseased parts and in every way assists in a natural cure of the sore. FAIRBANKS NOT ANY CANDIDATE

Vice President Says so in St. Louis Yesterday.

There Is Nothing Doing, But He Smiled Like an Aurora Borealis.

IS NO HOPE FROM MISSOURI

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—Backing through the swinging doors from the main waiting room to the midway at the Union station at 8:56 a. m. yesterday, Charles W. Fairbanks, vice president of the United States, bowed himself out of national politics. Just above his head was a large imitation gold sign which read "Exit." A moment before he faded away into the irrevocable past of political promotion he was asked:

"Are you a candidate for any office actively, tentatively or receptively?"

"Positively I am not," was his reply.

This expression followed a question about the secret conference which Mr. Fairbanks had Monday with Walter S. Dickey, chairman of the Missouri state Republican committee at the Baltimore hotel, in Kansas City.

Dickey told Fairbanks that he need foster no farther hope of being nominated for the presidency, and that the Missouri delegation to the convention would be pledged to Taft.

The coming of Mr. Fairbanks was even less spectacular than his departure. Coincidentally with a sudden fall in temperature he blew into St. Louis. His only companion was his private secretary, George B. Lockwood, and there was not even a reception committee of one to greet him.

But he smiled. A Fairbanks smile is a thing to be seen. It is like the aurora borealis, that adds beauty to the frozen ice fields of the north. A glow of color without warmth.

"I have been down in Texas," he said impressively. "I went to speak at the state fair at Dallas. That is a grand country, great, glorious, magnificent."

A man hurried across the waiting room and held out his hand. "This is Fairbanks, I believe," he said.

The vice president elevated his brows and turned his eyes upward. Who was this person who addressed him as Fairbanks without the "Mister?"

"How are you?" he said, extending his hand gingerly.

The man introduced himself as Rev. F. D. Buck, conference evangelist of the Methodist church, and he reminded Mr. Fairbanks that he had met him at Bloomington, Ill., two weeks ago, when the vice president spoke before a conference there.

Mr. Fairbanks gave the evangelist a near smile. "Ah, yes," he said, "I remember you. The people of Bloomington are a splendid constituency, so thoroughly representative of all the best in American life."

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe: try it.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood, and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

I. C. CONTROL FROM HARRIMAN

Wall Street Insists That He Will Surrender

Insistent Report That Union Pacific Will Part With Its Stock in Railroad.

HARRIMAN QUITE RETICENT

New York, Oct. 26.—Wall street insists that the control of Illinois Central is to pass from the hands of E. H. Harriman, no matter what the result of the fight now on with Stuyvesant Fish. Today there was an insistent report in the banking district that Union Pacific would part with its holdings in the Illinois Central and that was partly confirmed by Mr. Harriman, who said:

"This is not the time to discuss matters not of immediate imperative importance. The interest and attention of the investment world is and must be taken up in other and more important directions."

"I will not deny that this matter has been discussed for some time, and there is no question that the Union Pacific is in a position to make a valuable distribution to its stockholders, if it should prove desirable so to do at the proper time."

"You may rest assured that the whole matter will be settled on a proper basis when the time comes, but this is certainly not the time to discuss it."

In well informed quarters the remarks of Mr. Harriman were understood to mean that he had decided that at some time in the future he would, in one way or another, dispose of the stocks purchased by the Union Pacific more than a year ago with the funds obtained from the sale of Northern Pacific and Great Northern. Those stocks included:

	Par value.
Illinois Central	$28,123,100
St. Joseph and Grand Island, common	2,000,000
St. Joseph and Grand Island 1st pfd.	932,000
St. Joseph and Grand Island 2d pfd.	1,250,000
Baltimore & Ohio common	32,334,200
Baltimore & Ohio pfd.	7,206,000
St. Paul	3,699,000
Northwestern	2,572,000
New York Central	14,185,000

Just how this great mass of securities will be disposed of without affecting the market has not been announced, but the statement is given unofficially that the sale will not be a public one.

It is realized that to dump them on the market would be to precipitate a slump. It may be that some ingenious form of holding company will be devised, but the general belief is that he will confine the business of the Union Pacific railway strictly to the transportation of freight and passengers.

The proceeds of the sale, if it takes place, will be divided among the stockholders of the great Harriman line, and will be an enormous melon when it is ready for the cutting.

Conservative bankers in the street believe that the plan of disposing of the Union Pacific holdings will be carried out in good faith, and the matter was the subject of much favorable comment today. It has been realized for some time that the dominance of Harriman in Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio has been a source of great financial disturbance, and the elimination of his control from these lines would ease matters greatly.

The New Minister

By Frank H. Sweet

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

"H'E's come," said old Herkamer as he came into the kitchen and began to unload himself of the packages which he had brought from the trading post ten miles away, "an' now I reckon the next thing will be for him to go. We ain't waited five years for a meetin' house jest to carry it on as a nursery now we've got it. I don't see what Dr. Brown was thinkin' on."

"Is he very young?" asked Mrs. Herkamer, transferring the packages to a small cupboard fastened against the legs of the cabin wall.

"Young!" and old Herkamer's grim face seemed yet grimmer as it peered out through the small triangle formed by his down drawn cap and big, upturned collar. "He's younger'n our Seth, an' he couldn't speak ten words to folks lookin' at him to save his life. What we want is a tough, hard headed man who knows our ways an' can put up with 'em. This feller's store made an' soft. I could see that soon's the doctor introduced him. I wouldn't be s'prised if he showed every day, an' cleaned his nails an' bathed," drawing out the word derisively. "Huh! What can a feller like that do with our young men? S'pose he had to tramp ten miles through a Dakota blizzard to say pra'r's over a remains; s'pose he'd meet a fightin' grizzly in the forest; s'pose some of our high speeded boys got to chaffin' him in their b'ar cub way? Say, what'd he do then?" And without waiting for what he thought an impossible answer to his comments old Herkamer turned back to care for his team and to hasten his evening chores in anticipation of a gathering storm.

When he again appeared and had emerged from the depths of his greatcoat his mind still seemed to be harking back to his day's discontent, for he went on:

"Ain't old's our Seth, no; an' ain't more'n five feet four an' his hands soft's a baby. Huh! Our old minister where we come from had hands like the bark of an old hick'ry an' could chew terbacca an' wrestle with a grizzly an' pitch a man through a window when he got sassed. That's the sort we need here. How some comes 'fore he's a feller, an' an' hard hands 'fore 'f'ness. That's my idee."

He drew a stool to the fireplace and spread his hands 'out over the blaze with thawing satisfaction. One by one the grim lines of his face softened and mellowed under the fire's influence, and presently he turned half round toward his wife, who was preparing supper.

"Of course we needn't say anything like this outside," he observed, half apologetically. "The boy ain't to blame for what he is, an' the doctor got him here. An' funder," still mellowing, "we won't be hard on the doctor either. He's our nearest neighbor an' generally does things pretty sensible. We can pass over a slip now an' then. An' that reminds me," turning entirely round, "the doctor said he'd bring him over this evenin' if it didn't storm too hard, an' if it did it'd likely be round tomorrow. The boy seemed s'pry an' good natured an' said he wanted to visit everybody an' get acquainted. We'll treat him right's we can, for he won't be here many days. Poor little feller! He don't realize how soon the boy'll run him out. You might save the wild turkey I shot yesterday, Liza, an' that's plenty of venison. We'll treat him right."

Outside they could hear the sounds of the approaching storm, and Herkamer went to the windows and door and fastened them more securely.

"The doctor won't bring him out to-night," he said as he resumed his stool by the fire, "an' I don't reckon Seth an' the half breed will come in either. Leastway, I hope not. It'll be safer in the gulch than findin' one's way through this snow."

But he was mistaken, for presently there came a tramping and stamping outside, and as the cabin door was thrown open a tall, white haired old man stepped in, accompanied by a boyish figure of slight but compact build. The old man was Dr. Brown, the neighborhood doctor, and in his companion Herkamer recognized the new minister. But he was no longer the fashionably dressed figure which had alighted from the train at Minot, but rather a trim frontiersman in appropriate costume. Old Herkamer's eyes darkened a little as they rested upon him. He did not approve of ministers in masquerade.

"I hardly thought you'd get over to-night," he said rather shortly, "the storm."

"That's just why we came," the doctor interrupted genially. "The storm is likely to be a long one, and we can get back before it becomes severe. By tomorrow even the mule between our homes may be difficult to make. You are one of our prominent members," frankly, "and I wanted you to see more of Mr. Irwin before hearing him in the pulpit. We are apt to be prejudiced against strangers."

Herkamer's grimness increased. He was not prejudiced, he told himself, only conservative and steadfast. The man was all right, of course, but he was in the wrong place. It was a manifest duty to discountenance the mistake.

And yet there was something in the clear, earnest gaze of the young minister, in his frank smile and warm, sympathetic eyes that somehow thrilled the cynical old heart. If only the boy had been content with his professional costume, well, who knew but in time— But this outfit, so ridiculously new! Probably the boy had never had on such clothes before in his life. It was masquerading, trying to appear what he was not.

At this moment came a stumbling outside and an ineffectual groping for the latch string, then an "Open de do! I say, open de do!"

Herkamer sprang forward to comply, and as the door swung back a short, squat figure half fell into the room.

"The half breed!" ejaculated Herkamer, forgetting to shut the door in his consternation. "What's up, Baptiste? Where's Seth?"

"Busted," responded Baptiste, throwing out his arms dramatically. "Tree fall on shanty, break t'ron. Seth busted, me—Baptiste—busted too. Come for help, med'cine—rub on."

"Not dead!" gasped Mrs. Herkamer, her face whitening. "Seth ain't dead?" This brought the half breed to his senses.

"Non, on'y jes' busted," he reassured her. "Leg hurt so can't walk. Me—Baptiste—busted, too; finger broke. Come for med'cine—rub on. Ain't busted bad, n'm."

With trembling hands Mrs. Herkamer produced some bottles and bandages from the cupboard; her husband reached for his greatcoat.

"We must hurry back to him," he cried. "If his leg's broke it must be attended to at once. You'll have to excuse me," to his guests.

Baptiste raised his squat figure to its full height.

"No good you go," he declared stiffly, "bad way t'ron ravine. Foot-ten mile me come, all time fallin' an' climbin'; take five, six hour. You no strong like young man. Better me go lone. Go two time quick. Leg broke, want look out for soon. Me fix him, den we stay two t'ree day an' come home all right. Best way."

"The half breed's right," said Dr. Brown. "If the leg's broken it needs looking after at once, and Baptiste is just as good at that work as I am. Two old fellows like us, Herkamer, would only be a drag on Baptiste's progress."

But old Herkamer paid not the least notice. He was resolutely lumping his shoulders into his greatcoat when he felt a light touch upon his arm.

"You had better stay here, Mr. Herkamer," the young minister said quietly.

He strode out into the gathering darkness.

ly. "Your son is in need of help which should reach him just as speedily as possible. I am used to this sort of thing and am young and strong; besides I have some little knowledge of medicine. Mr. Baptiste and I can do all that is necessary." He buttoned his coat and turned to the half breed, who had been listening with open derision. But somehow, when Baptiste met the straight gaze of this young fellow, the contempt faded from his face. Like those who live close to nature, he was accustomed to look into eyes, and these eyes were strangely legible.

"Well, I guess mebbe you go 'long," he acquiesced graciously, "dat is, if you tink you good for tough job."

Old Herkamer stared. That soft handed boy "used to this sort of thing," and Baptiste accepting him in preference to himself. What was the world coming to?

"Why, the boy can't get through that ravine to save his life," he blurted out. "Ain't go t'ron ravine." Baptiste declared stolidly, "go roun' by hill dis time. Take two time longer, but no safe. Go in ravine, find snow tick, mebbe no get t'ron. Be's go safe. But so time wait for old peoples."

Herkamer snorted, but slowly removed his coat.

"Well, young feller," ignoring Baptiste and speaking to the minister, "you'd better put on my big coat an' all the other warm stuff we can scare up. Better freeze comfortable long's you're bound to freeze. An' don't let that half breed push you on too fast. We don't want no remains on our hands even if Seth has broke his leg."

The young minister smiled.

"This costume is all I need, thank you, Mr. Herkamer," he said reassuringly. "I had it made especially for this sort of work, and it is very warm. I do not like heavy wraps for hard walking; the exercise is better. If the wind is hard or the cold becomes very severe I have a hood which I can draw over my head and shoulders.

Now, Baptiste, about the route. Is this ravine you speak of a plain trail? Would a greenhorn like me be likely to lose his way?"

"Non; it be narrow, an' dere be rocks, alch on bot' sides, an' de camp be right in de middle. It can't be miss if we go dat fur. But we ain't goin' in de ravine, non. We go roun' by de hill. De ravine no let us out, mebbe, an' him berry dark now."

"Well, we must remember that a man is waiting in urgent need of help and that a barrier is liable to block any trail. We must take no chances. You go round by the hill, and I will take the ravine with a lantern. I am used to climbing, and can probably get through without any trouble."

Baptiste raised his hands as though to protest, but no words came from his lips. These straight glances were controlling him, and his hands felt to his side. The minister was a leader; he was to obey.

When they turned toward the door the rest accompanied them. Baptiste bent his head to the storm and plunged stolidly away to the hill route; the minister waited for a few directions from Herkamer, then he strode out into the gathering darkness toward the ravine.

"Do you think there's any chance at all of his making it?" asked Herkamer in a troubled voice as they turned back into the cabin.

"Chance," echoed the doctor, with a curious ring in his voice, "of course I do. That young fellow is small only in size. Why, he's climbed half the mountains in Europe and likes nothing better than a tough wrestle like this to help somebody. It's the best job I ever did for the neighborhood, getting him here. I was afraid I couldn't, for he has plenty of money and only took to the ministry through love for the work. I thought he'd want a softer place; but, no, he actually seemed pleased when I asked him to come out to our wild country. Of course he'll make it."

And he did, but with a sheer force of will that made it linger for many a long year about the neighborhood fire-sides as a story of pluck and endurance, and when he stood in the pulpit the next Sabbath, with one arm in a sling and his face still pale from the journey, there was not one in the rough audience but listened with respectful and earnest attention. And later, when they crowded about him to shake hands after services, it was not an effeminate, boyish figure they saw, but a brave, strong man to whom all were more than pleased to pay homage.

In a recent suit in a Cincinnati court a lawyer was cross-examining a German, the point under inquiry being the relative position of the doors, windows and so forth, in a house in which a certain transaction was alleged to have occurred.

"And now, my good man," the lawyer said, "will you be good enough to tell the court how the stairs run in your house?"

The German looked dazed for a moment. "How do they run?" he repeated.

"Yes; how do the stairs run?" "Vell," continued the witness, "even I am opp-stairs dey run down, and ven I am down-stairs dey run opp."—Harper's Weekly.

La France

The reason

the La France is the first choice of the particular woman is because no quality, style or feature that should be a part of the ideal woman's shoe is ever omitted in any La France shoe.

This explains why the makers of this best shoe for women have never ceased their efforts to reach shoe-perfection, till after long and patient "experiment" they recently solved successfully a problem that has baffled shoemen everywhere—how to secure perfect flexibility without the slightest loss of style, fit or durability.

In the new La France Flexible Welt is embodied the most satisfying combination of shoe-qualities known to shoemaking. It has greater ease than the "turn"—the beautiful appearance and splendid wearing powers of the "welt." It yields to every movement of the foot, yet never ceases to hold the instep with a firm but kindly grasp. Let us demonstrate to you this new Flexible Welt.

MONEY WANTED TO BRING FLEET FROM PACIFIC.

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt promises to ask congress to appropriate money enough to bring the battleship fleet back from the Pacific ocean, or else pass the whole question of its return up to congress. This he made clear to a caller today. Reference was made to his speeches, in which the president told the people of the middle west of his plans, and in which he included the announcement not only of the sending of the fleet, but of its return. Then it was that the president made it clear that there was money enough at his disposal to send the fleet around the Horn, but it would be up to congress to supply the funds to bring them back.

Bonaparte Penology.
Mr. Bonaparte's penological ideas are instantly made the target for fresh criticism, but this is just the administration that will tolerate news like the attorney general's. The president himself has enthusiastically recommended the revival of the whipping post in a message to congress. Those who are trying to worry Mr. Bonaparte into resigning from the cabinet must, therefore, find a new line of attack. To put habitual criminals to death, even when they have not committed what we understand to be capital crimes, is a proposition that few persons could indorse. Mr. Bonaparte believes in a "reform" of this dubious character. He has a right to; he will never have to resign on account of his penological opinions. The penalty he pays for airing them is simply an increased reputation for eccentricity of mind. He reminds us, in many respects, of certain professors of the University of Chicago.—Springfield Republican.
